

Cowlitz County Sheriff's Office

Sheriff Mark S. Nelson

Presents:

SURVIVING AN ACTIVE THREAT: A CIVILIAN RESPONSE

With the growing number of terrorist and active killer events happening in our nation, Cowlitz County Sheriff Mark Nelson feels now more than ever is the time for the public to get educated on what to do should they ever experience this ever growing crisis. We are offering this training for citizens to learn how to prepare themselves and their families should they ever come face to face with an active threat, whether it be in a school, a business, a grocery store or simply walking down the street. The Cowlitz County Sheriff's Office would like to invite you to this one day training seminar geared towards the citizens of Cowlitz County. Topics will include:

- Troubling trends in active killer events
- Mental/physical preparation
- Law enforcement/civilian crisis interaction
- Human crisis response
- Methods of survival
- Practice Scenarios

This classroom based training will provide real world examples and responses to active threat events and give you an opportunity to experience different survival methods when faced with an active threat.

When: Saturday, June 10th, 2017 from 10am-3:30pm
