Summer Concert Series Continues at Johnston Ridge Observatory

The Mount St. Helens National Volcanic Monument is pleased to present the second of its three-part Music on the Mountain concert series Saturday July 27 at the Johnston Ridge Observatory's new outside amphitheater. Organized and hosted in partnership with the Cowlitz County Economic Development Council, the outdoor music series provides concert goers with spectacular crater views, free music and food and drink available for purchase.

"The first concert this year was a really great time and we're excited for the second," says Lisa Romano, Mount St. Helens Community Engagement Specialist. "Since last year we've gotten the addition of Kelso Rotary volunteers to help staff the event and provide drink sales, which has made the concert series an even greater success."

On July 27, Daniel Kirkpatrick and the Bayonets will be playing from 6:30 – 8:30pm. The band has been likened to Tom Petty, Bruce Springsteen, and Eric Clapton and is sure to be a crowd pleaser. Admission to the concert is free. If it rains, the concerts will be canceled.
